

Echowaves Festival is a new music festival, which will take place on 23-26th of August in Anaklia, Georgia on behalf of Check In Georgia project.

There will be several stages with diverse music genres – Main Stage, KHIDI Stage, EYE Stage, and Tayo stage, that will host 150 international and local artists, including: Die Antwoord, Tricky, Solomun, Ben Cklock, Marcel Dettmann, Juan Atkins, Function, Kayakata, NU, Woo York, Henrik Schwarz, Antigonae, DJ TENNIS, Greenbeam & Leon etc.

The festival will have camping area, where guest can settle a day before the event.

Visitors can enjoy Aqua Park all day long, as well as other entertainment and sport activities like Zip-line, football, basketball, film screenings, workshops, board games etc.

The festival will be held under the umbrella of "EXIT" - one of the most popular festivals in Europe. The "EXIT" Festival was named as Europe's Best Festival in 2014. Echowaves will be supported by Exit and its experienced group of organizers. This support is crucial for development of Georgian brand and highly beneficial for its image.

A 4 day festival will contribute to region's cultural development and help to create attractive project for tourists. Thousands of local and international guests will visit Anaklia during the festival, which will be beneficial for local hotels and private sector. Echowaves will help to increase the investments in the region and make Anaklia regional hub for electronic music

The project is implemented by Anaklia Entertainment Group Ltd, which is headed by Brian Costadinov. Brane Costadinov is the founder of EEMM (Eastern European Music management) Group. The company was found in 2001 and has held over 3000 events in 25 countries around the world, collaborating with more than 700 artists in booking direction.
